IS COLLEGE IN YOUR FUTURE?

An accredited transcript eases the admission process for colleges and universities.

A NEW LEVEL OF SUPPORT FOR HOME-BASED EDUCATION

Home Education Designs is accredited through the Northwest Accreditation Commission as a program assisting home education. We recognize the HOME as the school location where records are kept and PARENTS as the teachers and counselors.

How can our accreditation help home schoolers?

By providing second-party validation of home-school grades, we simplify the transfer of home-based high school credits into other accredited high schools. Our services also ease the college admission process and improve scholarship opportunities. Meeting H.E.D. standards makes a positive statement about the quality of work completed in your home education program.

Why can you trust Home Education Designs to substantially support your home school?
Through the years we have established a good reputation among public, private and home school educators. We provide affordable counseling, training and accountability for home educators.

Accreditation through the Northwest Accreditation Commission provides reciprocity with secondary institutions throughout the United States. Our staff has years of experience working with many home school curriculum and education styles.

We recognize the HOME as the school location where records are kept and PARENTS as the teachers and counselors.
